

SIHI NIGERIA INNOVATION CALL 2023

Are you an individual or organization that has implemented innovative or creative solutions focused on improving prenatal care and child immunization in Nigeria?

WE ARE LOOKING FOR YOU!

The Social Innovation in Health Initiative (SIHI) Hub in Nigeria based at Nnamdi Azikiwe University, in collaboration with the Federal Ministry of Science, Technology and Innovation (FMSTI), and the Special Programme for Research and Training in Tropical Disease (TDR), is looking for health solutions that will support and contribute to the achievement of health-related sustainable development goals in Nigeria.

We are looking for solutions that educate and empower women to make informed health decisions on prenatal care and child immunization.

Both online and facility-based innovations, existing and implemented in Nigeria, are acceptable provided they demonstrate innovation, feasibility, and local viability.

• Recognition

Your solution will be recognized by the Nnamdi Azikiwe University, the Federal Ministry of Science, Technology and Innovation and TDR.

• Sharing

We will share your solution across Nigeria as well as internationally through the SIHI Partner Network

• Networking opportunities

You will become part of the growing SIHI community of innovators

• Documentation

Your solution will be studied by researchers and will produce a case study.

• Learning

You will be invited to attend various workshops and learning sessions for innovators
